The details of budgetary allocation spent on higher and technical education during each of the last three years, are as under:—

Year	Allocation (Rs. in crore)
	Higher & Technical Education
2002-03	3132.39
2003-04	3161.73
2004-05	3540.69

In view of the priority required to be given to elementary and school education, resources available to higher education are limited. Provisions made in the Central Government's budget are primarily meant for Central Universities with only limited developmental assistance for the State Universities which are generally funded by the State Government.

The present level of enrolment of students in 349 universities including open universities and in the affiliated colleges, is approximately at 120 lakhs.

The target for enrolment in higher education during the Tenth Five Year Plan period (2002-2007) is to reach a level of 10% of the relevant age group. Expansion of capacity, improvement in quality and relevance in the conventional university system, along with strengthening the Open and Distance Learning system of education is the broad strategy adopted for increasing higher enrolment in education.
